Spring & Summer

Central European University Press
Budapest—New York

Following the founding of the Central European University by the Hungarian–American philanthropist George Soros, CEU Press was established in 1993. During the first fifteen years, the publishing program of the Press primarily focused on issues of Central and Eastern Europe, with a special emphasis on the precedents and consequences of transition from communism to democracy and market economy, but as CEU’s academic and social activities have changed to reflect its increasing global engagement, it has had implications for the orientation of the Press as well.

Reflecting the intellectual strengths and values of its parent institution, the Press now publishes books on the political philosophy and practices of open society, history, legal studies, nationalism, media studies, human rights, conflict resolution, gender studies, Jewish studies, economics, medieval studies, literature, international relations, higher education, and public policy.

We operate by standards common to university presses, including peer review and editorial committee approval. Our books are produced regionally and sold internationally, including the most up-to-date distribution channels.

HISTORICAL STUDIES in Eastern Europe and Eurasia

With Rural Unrest during the First Russian Revolution and The Village and the Class War the Central European University Press launches a new series of high quality monographs entitled Historical Studies in Eastern Europe and Eurasia.

ISSN 2306-3637

ON THE COVER: The pomegranate is the symbol of fertility. Relates to Demographic Avant-garde, on page 3 of this catalogue.

RURAL UNREST DURING THE FIRST RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

KURSK PROVINCE, 1905–1906

BURTON RICHARD MILLER

Research Analyst, New York

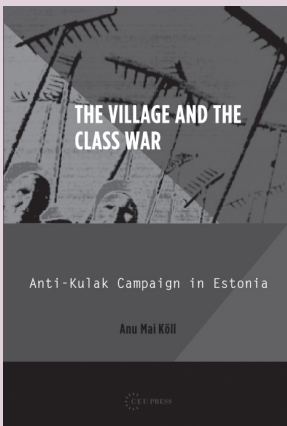

Historical Studies in Eastern Europe and Eurasia, Vol. 1.

ISSN 2306-3637, 410 pages, 2013 (Previously announced)

978-615-5225-17-8 cloth $60.00 / €55.00 / £50.00

The narrative of peasant unrest in Russia during 1905–1906 combines a chronology of incidents drawn from official documents, with close analysis of the villages associated with the disorders based upon detailed census materials compiled by local specialists. The analysis concentrates on a single province: Kursk Oblast. Miller focuses on local events and the rural populations that participated in them.

The volume documents the degree to which the peasant community had been pushed onto the path of change by the end of the 19th century, how much the “peasantry” itself had become increasingly heterogeneous in outlook and occupation, and the rapidity with which these processes had begun to corrode the legitimacy of the older order. The author concludes that unrest was concentrated mostly among peasant communities for whom the benefits of the vital interactions between social unequals that had maintained a fragile social peace in the countryside had been radically eroded.

THE VILLAGE AND THE CLASS WAR

ANTI-KULAK CAMPAIGN IN ESTONIA

ANU MAI KÕLL

Södertörn University, Sweden

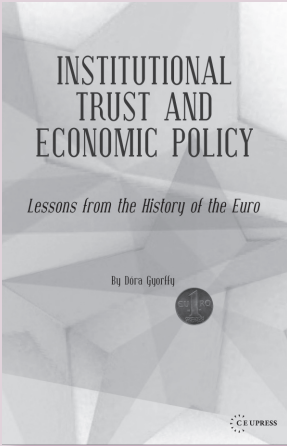

Historical Studies in Eastern Europe and Eurasia, Vol. 2.

ISSN 2306-3637, 280 pages, 2013 (Previously announced)

978-615-5225-14-7 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

Before collectivization of agriculture in Estonia, “kulaks” (better-off farmers) were persecuted and many of them were finally deported in 1949. This book is situated on the local level; the aim is to understand these processes from the perspective of the rural population.

Repression was mainly conducted through a bureaucratic process where denunciations were not even necessary. The main tool was a screening of the rural population with the help of records, censuses and local knowledge, in order to identify, or invent, “kulak families”. The World War II history of each individual was a crucial part of screenings. The prisoners of war of the Red Army, held in camps in Estonia, played part in this campaign. Kõll portrays the wave of peaceful resistance as the kulak identifications were challenged in 1947–48, so far not addressed in the literature. The results answer the question “how” this process worked, whereas the question “why” finds hypothetical responses in the actors’ life trajectories.

INSTITUTIONAL TRUST AND ECONOMIC POLICY

LESSONS FROM THE HISTORY OF THE EURO

DÓRA GYÓRFY

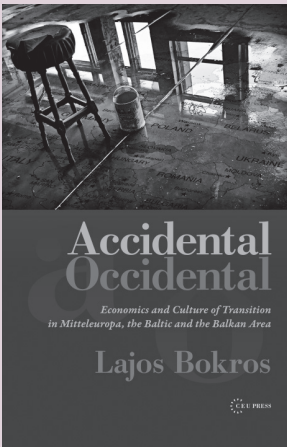

Péter Pázmány Catholic University, Hungary

204 pages, 2013

978-615-5225-22-2 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

The book seeks to link theoretical debates on the relevance of trust in economic outcomes with the current arguments about the origins and lessons of the subprime crisis. By what mechanisms does trust influence economic outcomes? Under what conditions do these mechanisms prevail? How do debates about trust help our understanding of the subprime crisis in Europe?

By integrating insights from Post-Keynesian, Austrian and new institutional economics, the central proposition is that the presence or absence of institutional trust creates virtuous and vicious cycles in law-abiding, which critically impact the possibility for economic agents to have realistic long-term plans. In a low-trust environment the uncertainty surrounding the functioning of institutions leads to short-term decisions. Political business cycles, lax regulations on credit and boom-bust cycles are typical of such an environment. While empirical evidence from the European Union largely supports these propositions, exceptions are also identified.

ACCIDENTAL OCCIDENTAL

ECONOMICS AND CULTURE OF TRANSITION IN MITTELEUROPA, THE BALTIC AND THE BALKAN AREA

LAJOS BOKROS

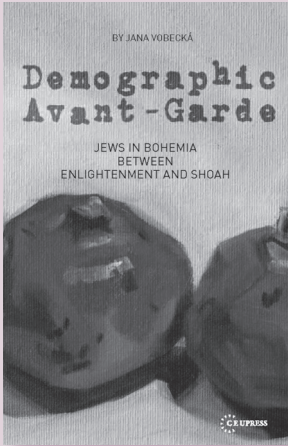

Member of the European Parliament, former Minister of Finance of Hungary, Professor of Economics and Public Policy at Central European University

204 pages, 2013

978-615-5225-24-6 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

Besides providing a historical record of the long road from the economic agenda of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution to the present transition from communism, and covering a large geographical range, this book can be considered a staunch defense of market capitalism and liberal democracy. Any celebration of the current transition in Eastern Europe necessarily affirms the superiority of a market system over a non-market one and of a democratic system over a non-democratic one.

Bokros, a frontline actor of post-communist economic transition, does not deny the failures, shortcomings or imperfections of market economy and democracy. Nor does he take the survival of market capitalism and liberal democracy for granted. By highlighting the valiant and painful process of transition and attempting to understand its economics and culture, he seeks to contribute to the theoretical (academic) and practical (political) defense of Western civilization.

DEMOGRAPHIC AVANT-GARDE

JEWES IN BOHEMIA BETWEEN ENLIGHTENMENT AND SHOAH

YANA VOBECKÁ

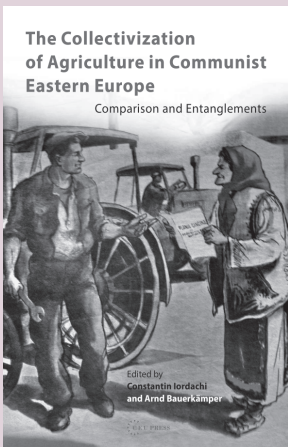

Vienna Institute of Demography, Austrian Academy of Sciences

220 pages, 2013

978-615-5225-33-8 paperback $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

This book studies the unique demographic behavior of Jews in Bohemia (the historic name of the western part of the Czech lands), starting from a moment in history when industrialization in Central Europe was still far away in the future, and when Jews were still living legally restricted lives in segregated ghettos. From the 18th century onwards, Jews developed patterns of decreasing mortality and fertility that was not observed among the gentile majority in Bohemia, patterns which established them as the demographic avant-garde population in all of Europe.

Demographic Avant-garde elucidates what made Jews in Bohemia true forerunners of the demographic transition and why this occurred when it did. It scrutinizes demographic statistics from the mid-eighteenth to the mid-twentieth century, and examines what made Bohemian Jews' data distinct from the trends observed in the gentile community and among Jews in other lands. In search for the answers, Vobecká's analysis touches upon the cultural, social, political and economic environment.

THE COLLECTIVIZATION OF AGRICULTURE IN COMMUNIST EASTERN EUROPE

COMPARISON AND ENTANGLEMENTS

EDITED BY

CONSTANTIN IORDACHI, Central European University, Budapest
 ARND BAUERKÄMPER, Freie Universität, Berlin

560 pages, 2013

978-615-5225-63-5 cloth $70.00 / €65.00 / £60.00

The volume offers a complex comparative overview of the collectivization process in Eastern Europe after World War II. Despite its profound implications, the subject has remained a relatively under-researched field. In order to understand the post-communist transformation of Eastern European societies, scholars need to pay attention to the status and evolution of the peasantry and to employ a historical perspective, by exploring the communist agricultural policies and their enduring implications. The book explores the interrelated collectivization of the agriculture in USSR and in the communist dictatorships established in the Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe.

Although the essays focus on case studies, they address a unitary set of analytical issues, relating to: 1) the Soviet "model" and its emulation in Eastern Europe; 2) spatial differences in the collectivization campaigns, particularly with regard to the relationship between center and peripheral regions; 3) the dynamics of collectivization in rural societies; and 4) types of collectivization and socialist agricultural systems.

HOT BOOKS IN THE COLD WAR

THE CIA-FUNDED SECRET WESTERN BOOK DISTRIBUTION PROGRAM BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

ALFRED A. REISCH

Former Senior Political Analyst, Radio Free Europe, New York

570 pages, 2013

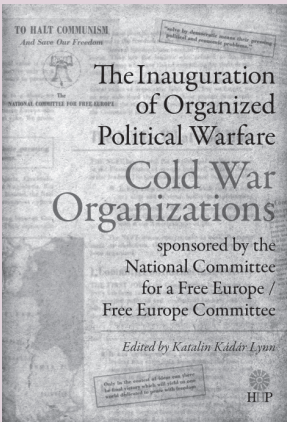

978-615-5225-23-9

cloth

$70.00 / €65.00 / £60.00

This study reveals the hidden story of the secret book distribution program to Eastern Europe financed by the CIA during the Cold War. At its height between 1957 and 1970, the book program was one of the least known but one of the most effective methods of penetrating the Iron Curtain. It reached thousands of intellectuals and professionals in the Soviet Bloc, acquainting them with analyses of Western economies, trade unionism, social science, human rights, modern capitalism, Western socialism etc. Reisch conducted thorough research on the key personalities involved in the program, especially the two key figures: S. S. Walker, who initiated the idea of a "mailing project," and G. C. Minden, who developed it into one of the most effective political and psychological tools of the Cold War.

The book includes chapters on the vagaries of censorship and interception of books by communist authorities based on personal letters and accounts from recipients of Western material. It stands as a testimony in honor of the handful of imaginative, and determined individuals who helped to free half of Europe from mental bondage, and planted many of the seeds that germinated when communism collapsed and the Soviet bloc disintegrated.

THE INAUGURATION OF ORGANIZED POLITICAL WARFARE

COLD WAR ORGANIZATIONS SPONSORED BY THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A FREE EUROPE / FREE EUROPE COMMITTEE

EDITED BY

KATALIN KÁDÁR LYNN, Independent scholar, Trustee of the American Hungarian Library and Historical Society of New York City

500 pages, 2013

978-0-9859433-0-1

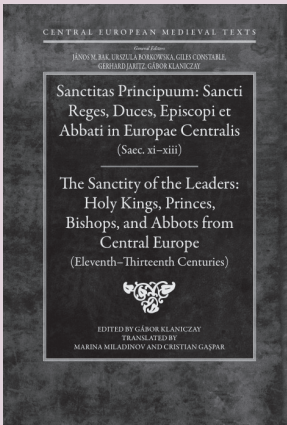

cloth

$60.00 / €55.00 / £50.00

The National Committee for a Free Europe – which at one point changed its name to Free Europe Committee – was a US government sponsored organization between 1949 and 1971. Its mission was to wage "organized political warfare" against Soviet Expansionism, with Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty as the two best known divisions. The NCFE and its anti-communist campaign remains one of the last aspects of U.S. Cold War policy, and Cold War scholarship will not be complete until this history is made available.

The essays in this book discuss the Bulgarian, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian, Polish, Romanian and Baltic States national committees, which were formed to lead the propaganda battle against the growth of worldwide communism, and which represented the U.S.-based exile leadership of those satellite nations. The primary sources of this research were the records of the two radios, acquired by the Hoover Institution Archives at Stanford University in 2000.

This is a Helena History Press publication, distributed by CEU Press.

THE SANCTITY OF THE LEADERS

HOLY KINGS, PRINCES, BISHOPS, AND ABBOTS FROM CENTRAL EUROPE (11TH TO 13TH CENTURIES)

EDITED BY
GÁBOR KLANICZAY, Central European University, Budapest

TRANSLATED BY
CRISTIAN GAȘPAR and MARINA MILADINOV

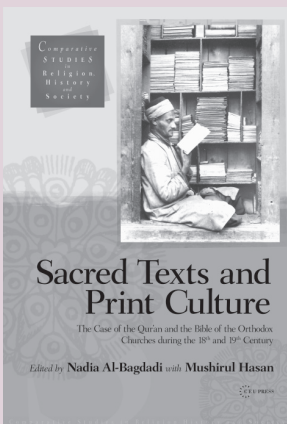

220 pages, bilingual, 2013

978-615-5225-28-4 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

Saints' lives have gained recognition as a goldmine of information on social and economic history, history of mentalities and everyday life and, above all, as the genre of crucial importance within medieval literature.

The seventh volume in the Central European Medieval Texts series contains lives of saints in the latest critical edition of the Latin original and their first English translation: Saint Stephen (King of Hungary), Saint Gerard, Saint Emeric (Hungarian Prince), Saint John of Trogir, Saint Stanislas, Saint Ladislav (King of Hungary), and Saint Procopius.

In the 11th–13th centuries in the newly christianized countries (Bohemia, Poland, Hungary and Dalmatia) political leaders dominated the list of newly canonized saints, as opposed to the pious proselytizers of the previous period. (The hagiographical narratives of the latter were published in the preceding volume of the series.) Prefaces to each "vita" discuss the textual tradition. In an appendix the extensive hagiographical literature of the saints is being critically surveyed.

SACRED TEXTS AND PRINT CULTURE

THE CASE OF THE QUR'AN AND THE BIBLE OF THE EASTERN CHURCHES, 18TH AND 19TH CENTURIES

EDITED BY
NADIA AL-BAGDADI, Central European University, Budapest
MUSHIRUL HASAN, Jamia Millia Islamia University, Delhi

Comparative Studies in Religion, History, and Society, Vol. 1.

ISSN 2219-8717, 290 pages, 2013

978-615-5225-31-4 cloth $60.00 / €55.00 / £50.00

As the first volume of a new CEU Press series, this book studies the history and hermeneutics of Holy Scriptures when book printing started to influence the dissemination of knowledge in the Orthodox-Christian and the Muslim world. The printing of these texts cannot be considered as mere technical innovation of reproduction. Since printing required special knowledge and allowed a much wider circulation, it triggered a debate among the religious elites and in their societies about fundamental dilemmas. Who is allowed to have access to Holy Scriptures? What does it mean that people not belonging to the religious elite will be able to read sacred texts? If a broad circulation is technically feasible, why should not texts in the canon be printed in the language of the people? How does the "production of meaning" of a sacred text change if it is circulated by means of print?

The essays give insight into changes in the democratization of knowledge, religious elites undergoing changes, and the secularization of traditions in Romania, Egypt, Russia, India, Croatia, East and West Bengal, as well as among the Assyrians of the Middle East.

CHRISTIANITY AND MODERNITY IN EASTERN EUROPE

EDITED BY

BRUCE R. BERGLUND, Calvin College, Michigan

BRIAN PORTER-SZŰCS, University of Michigan

402 pages, 2013

978-963-9776-65-4	cloth	$55.00 / €44.95 / £40.00
978-615-5225-66-6	paperback	$35.00 / €30.00 / £25.00

Religious history has experienced an exciting revival over the past few years, with new methodological and theoretical approaches invigorating the field. This book explores the influence of the Christian churches in Eastern Europe's social, cultural, and political history. Drawing upon archival sources, the work fills a vacuum as few scholars have systematically explored the history of Christianity in the region.

The essays challenge readers with questions like: Is secularization a useful concept in understanding the long-term dynamics of religiosity in Eastern Europe? Is the picture of oppression and resistance an accurate way to characterize religious life under communism, or did Christians and communists find ways to co-exist on the local level prior to 1989? What role did Christians actually play in dissident movements under communism? And finally: what does the study of Eastern Europe contribute to the broader study of modern Christian history, and what can we learn from the interpretative problems that arise, uniquely, from this region?

LIVING THE HIGH LIFE IN MINSK

RUSSIAN ENERGY RENTS, DOMESTIC POPULISM AND BELARUS' IMPENDING CRISIS

MARGARITA M. BALMACEADA

220 pages, 2013 978-615-5225-19-2 cloth $50.00 / €45.00 / £40.00

This book is an attempt to understand the role of energy relations, policies, and discourses in the maintenance of Lukashenka's power in Belarus. In the process of doing so, the book also sheds new light on understanding Belarus' political development and, more generally, sources of stability and instability in post-Soviet authoritarian states and authoritarian states as a whole.

OCTAVIAN EȘANU

330 pages, 2013 978-615-5225-11-6 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

This book presents a well-researched narrative of the transformations that Eastern European art has undergone since the demise of communism. These transformations are demonstrated by the example of the Moscow-based conceptual artist group called Collective Actions. This study helps the reader to understand the fate of the artistic imagination in one of the most ideologically charged moments of the twentieth century.

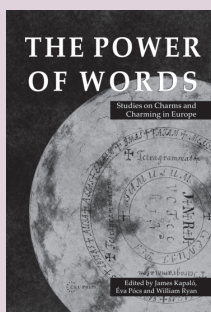

KEY-CONCEPTS OF ROMANIAN HISTORY

250 pages, 2013 978-615-5225-10-9 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

The essays reflect the rich textual tradition of archives, monasteries and literary sources, as well as the texts still accessible through field work in many rural areas of Europe and known from the living practice of healers in local communities, and even of priests. The authors include representatives of folklore studies, contemporary and historical anthropology, as well as linguistics, the study of Classical Antiquity, mediaeval, Byzantine, Russian, and Baltic studies.

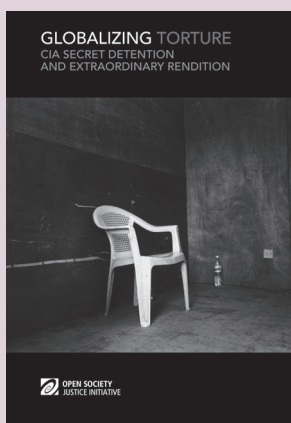

TURNING TRADITIONS UPSIDE DOWN

RETHINKING GIORDANO BRUNO'S "ENLIGHTENMENT"

EDITED BY ANNE EUSTERSCHULTE, HENNING HUFNAGEL

280 pages, 2013 978-615-5053-63-4 cloth $50.00 / €45.00 / £40.00

A non-conformist at the dawn of an epoch, a martyr of modernity, or just a polemic controvert? Giordano Bruno is known today as an exceptional, yet ambivalent figure within the history of ideas. Some of the world's most eminent researchers on Bruno offer an exhaustive overview of the state-of-the-art research on his work, discussing his methodological procedures, his literary practices, his natural philosophy, or his role as theologian and metaphysic at the cutting-edge of their disciplines.

GLOBALIZING TORTURE

CIA SECRET DETENTION AND EXTRAORDINARY RENDITION IN HUNGARY'S 2011 FUNDAMENTAL LAW

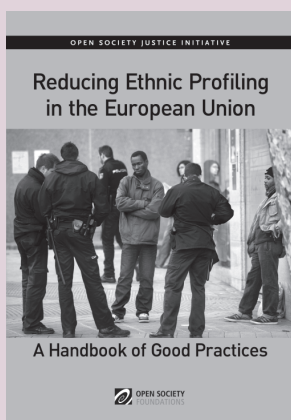

OPEN SOCIETY JUSTICE INITIATIVE

256 pages, 2013

978-1-936133-75-8 paperback $27.95 / €25.95 / £23.99

This report, written by Amrit Singh, focuses on the human rights abuses associated with the CIA's post-September 11, 2001 secret detention and extraordinary rendition operations. It documents the secret detention of detainees in CIA custody outside the United States, and the extraordinary detention of detainees—without meaningful legal process—to the custody of foreign governments for the purposes of detention and interrogation, often in the face of a real risk of being tortured.

The book provides, for the first time anywhere, the most comprehensive account of the human rights abuses committed by the US Central Intelligence Agency in "war on terror." It identifies 138 victims of illegal detention and extraordinary detention and describes in searing detail the abuses they suffered. It also identifies 54 foreign governments that collaborated with the United States in these illegal practices. Includes recommendations for addressing similar human rights abuses.

REDUCING ETHNIC PROFILING IN THE EUROPEAN UNION

A HANDBOOK OF GOOD PRACTICES

OPEN SOCIETY JUSTICE INITIATIVE

228 pages, 2013

978-1-936133-55-0 paperback $25.95 / €23.95 / £21.99

Ethnic profiling by police in Europe is a widespread form of discrimination that violates basic human rights norms. Ethnic profiling is also inefficient: it leads police to focus on racial and ethnic traits rather than genuine indicators of suspicion, and results in stopping and searching large numbers of innocent people. Fortunately, better alternatives exist—approaches to policing that are fairer and more effective. This handbook documents those approaches and offers guidance to help cut down on discrimination and increase police efficacy.

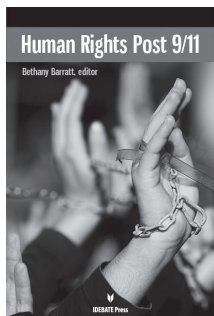

The book, written by Rachel Neild, senior advisor on ethnic profiling and police reform, provides diagnostic questions, field-tested ideas for reform, and proven models of good practice for reducing ethnic profiling. It is intended to help police officers, law enforcement agencies, civil society organizations, and community representatives better understand the dynamics and costs of ethnic profiling, and aid them in developing new partnerships, policies, and practices to address the problem. The nearly 100 case studies show that efforts to address ethnic profiling can succeed.

INTERNATIONAL DEBATE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION—IDEA

Across the globe, IDEA (the International Debate Education Association – <http://idebate.org>) strives to foster an engaged, democratic citizenry by offering young people the opportunity to research and discuss important issues critical to their lives, to their community, to their very future. IDEA coordinates the activities of a network of local non-governmental organizations that promote the free exchange of ideas, tolerance, and international cooperation.

IDEBATE Press

Idebate Press is IDEA's publishing arm. It publishes books for middle and high school students, their teachers, and for the general reader on debate, debating styles, rhetoric, and critical thinking, and on subjects of particular interest to youth and of relevance to youth's role in society.

HUMAN RIGHTS POST 9/11

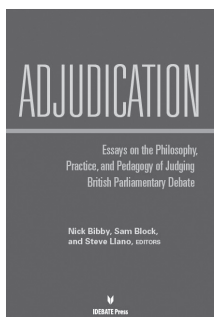

EDITED BY

BETHANY BARRATT, Roosevelt University, Chicago

240 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-072-9 paperback $24.95 / €22.95 / £21.99

Human Rights Post 9/11 draws on the insights of top scholars in law, political science, and philosophy from across the international community to explore four broad questions: • How have definitions of warfare and the legal and philosophical restraints on violence that have emerged around war changed since 9/11? • What are the broader implications of these changes for international human rights law? • To what extent have these changes altered domestic human rights practices? • What can we predict about the future of the international human rights regime? Thematic sections address: • 9/11 and changing definitions of warfare • 9/11's impact on international law • The relationship between freedom from terror and other human rights • Human rights and international organization since 9/11.

MAKING CIVICS RELEVANT, MAKING CITIZENS EFFECTIVE

ACTION CIVICS IN THE CLASSROOM

DANIEL MILLENSON, Generation Citizen, USA

MOLLY MILLS, Generation Citizen, USA

SARAH ANDES, Generation Citizen, USA

192 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-068-2 paperback $27.95 / €25.95 / £23.99

Making Civics Relevant, Making Citizens Effective is designed to help secondary social studies and civics teachers bring an innovative, student-centered approach to the classroom that provides students with a framework for effective civic participation. The lesson plans in this book guide students through the process of selecting a community issue of concern and creating and implementing a plan of action. The Common Core-aligned curriculum enables student to develop and practice "21st century skills" such as oral and written persuasion, group collaboration, and critical analysis. Each lesson in the volume contains an introduction, clear steps to present and implement the material, relevant student handouts, and, where applicable, formative assessments/exit tickets. The book also contains a portfolio-based method of assessment, with summative assessments for the various units and opportunities to showcase student work.

DEBATE AND DIALOGUE IN CORRECTIONAL SETTINGS

RICARDO B. CHAVEZ, Walla Walla Community College at Coyote Ridge Corrections Center

JOE COOKE, Walla Walla Community College at Coyote Ridge Corrections Center

64 pages, 8.5" x 11", 2013 978-1-61770-070-5 paperback $9.95 / €7.50 / £6.99

Debate and Dialogue in Correctional Settings describes how debate can be integrated into existing classroom activities. It offers a new model for debate that emphasizes respectful dialogue, acknowledging counter evidence, and audience participation to facilitate meaningful learning. The model makes extensive use of diagrams, idea maps, and other visual approaches. The DDD model also promotes a range of practical skills, including critical thinking skills, associated more broadly with learning. Perhaps of most utility is the inherent flexibility of the model in meeting the needs of different instructors and classrooms.

MIGRATION, HUMAN RIGHTS, AND DEVELOPMENT

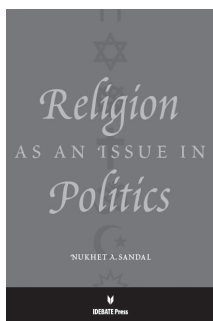

A GLOBAL ANTHOLOGY

EDITED BY

ANNE GALLAGHER, lawyer and scholar

256 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-071-2 paperback $24.95 / €22.95 / £21.99

This anthology presents a unique collection of the best, most accessible, and most important writing in the area of migration—with a particular focus on the human rights and development aspects of modern migration trends and responses. Thematic sections address: 1) the relationship and connections between human rights, migration, and development; 2) key issues in migration and development, including impacts on source and destination countries, social costs, and the role of remittances; 3) key issues in migration and human rights: the legal and policy framework and rights of specific migrant groups including refugees, children, and women. 4) the future of migration. Is migration always a good? Can restrictions be justified? How do we address the very real challenges of global migration while preserving rights and promoting development?

RELIGION AS AN ISSUE IN POLITICS

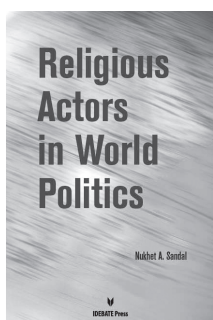

EDITED BY

NUKHET A. SANDAL, Brown University

240 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-066-8 paperback $24.95 / €22.95 / £21.99

The volume covers various aspects of world politics in which religion has been influential, especially since the end of the Cold War. Since that time, religious political parties have become more vocal and ethno-religious conflicts with worldwide ramifications have taken their place in foreign policy agendas of states. Even in secular contexts, debates surrounding health, environment, and human rights now include a religious dimension. The collection of essays from prominent scholars probes the much debated relationship between religion and politics in multiple contexts including Africa, Latin America, East Asia, Western Europe, and the Middle East.

Thematic sections address: 1) religion, state, and identity crises 2) religion, peace, and international norms 3) religion, governance, and foreign policymaking 4) religion, democracy, and human rights 5) religion and development.

RELIGIOUS ACTORS IN WORLD POLITICS

EDITED BY

NUKHET A. SANDAL, Brown University

240 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-065-1 paperback $24.95 / €22.95 / £21.99

Religious actors have become increasingly visible in the 21st century public sphere. Religious groups, political parties, and states are at the forefront of the heated debates surrounding governance, security, and economics. They have a wide range of goals and they employ diverse instruments, and policymakers recognize the importance of becoming familiar with and, in certain cases, working with religious actors. This volume takes a closer look at the involvement of religious actors in world politics, recognizing both the challenges and opportunities their participation entails. Essays cover religious political parties and local religious organizations, religious states, violent religious actors, and transnational religious networks in multiple contexts ranging from Latin America to Eastern Europe.

CEU PRESS STUDIES IN THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE

The history of medicine is currently undergoing a remarkable historiographic transformation, one which this book series attempts to capture and disseminate among a wider audience. The series strives to not merely offer original and timely research on neglected national case studies in Europe, but to redefine and diversify the overarching debates on the particularly turbulent periods of modern history during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Already appeared:
